

BKLYN "Talking About Race in the Classroom" Recommended Resources

This resource list was created for the session "Talking About Race in the Classroom," as part of the BKLYN Early Childhood Educator Series, a series of 6 professional development workshops curated by BPL for early childhood educators and librarians working with young children in diverse schools, early childhood settings, institutions, and libraries.

Created by BPL_YFS

---

Chocolate me!

Diggs, Taye.

The colors of us

Katz, Karen.

Let's talk about race

Lester, Julius.

It's okay to be different

Parr, Todd.

Yertle the turtle and other stories

Seuss, Dr.

Yertle the Turtle can be used to spark discussions about fairness with the youngest readers, while older children can also tackle power and justice, all of which are relevant in an exploration of race and racism.

Yoko writes her name

Wells, Rosemary.

BKLYN "Talking About Race in the Classroom" Recommended Resources

This resource list was created for the session "Talking About Race in the Classroom," as part of the BKLYN Early Childhood Educator Series, a series of 6 professional development workshops curated by BPL for early childhood educators and librarians working with young children in diverse schools, early childhood settings, institutions, and libraries.

Created by BPL_YFS

---

The sandwich swap

Rania, Queen, consort of Abdullah II, King of Jordan, 1970-

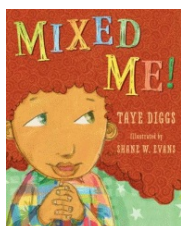

This story can be used to explore how we often dislike things or people that are new or different at first, but come to change our feelings after learning about them.

Let freedom sing

Brantley-Newton, Vanessa.

This book makes the Civil Rights Movement understandable for young children.

Mixed me

Diggs, Taye, author.

The Sneetches : and other stories

Seuss, Dr.

The Sneetches lends itself to conversations about discrimination, privilege, and friendship.