The darkest part of the woods

Ramsey Campbell.

"A forest haunted by a horror older than time and channeled by one unfortunate family is the foundation of this gripping horror extravaganza" -- Publisher's Weekly

The book of lost things

John Connolly.

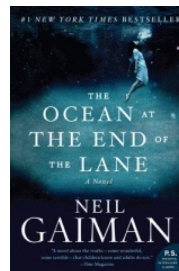

Taking refuge in fairy tales after the loss of his mother, twelve-year-old David finds himself violently propelled into an imaginary land in which the boundaries of fantasy and reality are disturbingly melded.

A scanner darkly

Philip K. Dick.

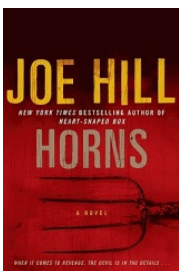

In a paranoid future, a reluctant undercover cop is ordered to spy on a group of drug users. The targets? His friends, his roommates... and himself.

The ocean at the end of the lane

Neil Gaiman.

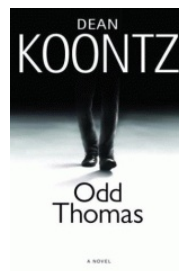

"Returning to his childhood home in the English countryside for a funeral, the unnamed middle-aged narrator of this haunting, lyrical fable finds himself drawn to an ordinary-looking farmhouse that's anything but." - NovelList

Horns

Joe Hill.

After his childhood sweetheart is brutally killed and suspicion falls on him, Ig Parrish goes on a drinking binge and wakes up with horns on his head, hate in his heart, and an incredible new power which he uses in the name of vengeance.

Odd Thomas

Dean Koontz.

Odd Thomas works as a fry cook in a small desert town. He has the power to commune with the dead -- which comes in handy when the arrival of a mysterious traveler threatens to spark a cosmic cataclysm.
