

Baby/Toddler Storytime Week 8: Review

This is the last week of Baby and Toddler Storytime so we're reviewing all of the 6 essential pre-literacy skills. Print Motivation: I like books! Phonological Awareness: I hear words! Vocabulary: I know words! Print Awareness: I see words! Narrative Skills: I tell stories! Letter Knowledge: I know letters! Each of these books emphasizes one or more of these skills. Please also refer to the links to the other weeks for more books. Remember to keep reading!

Five little chicks

Nancy Tafuri.

The simple rhyming couplets in this book are great for practicing phonological awareness and the descriptions and simple plot are good examples of narrative skills.

Brown bear, brown bear, what do you see?

[by Bill Martin, Jr. ; pictures by Eric Carle].

Orange pear apple bear

Emily Gravett. --

The nearly one to one text-image ratio is good for print awareness, and the different descriptions as "orange, pear, apple, bear" are mixed up are a very basic demonstration of narrative skills. Also it's a very cute book. :)

Shout! Shout it out!

Denise Fleming. --

This book is great for print motivation, especially for toddlers because you can shout along! Since it also includes the alphabet it's also good for letter knowledge.
